

"The first where the altar of Hercules was consecrated by Evander

The first superstition of the Roman city

After which the celebrated house of Diana was built

He built so many ancient temples to shame God,

Mount Aventine now became a greater glory,

The one true religion of God.

Especially because of Prisca, that you see the noble temple,

That ancient match deservedly has its name,

For Peter taught this to the people as he often taught

Meanwhile, he would make great and frequent sacrifices to God

While those of the fauna of the spring had been deceived by error

Here it would be better to purify the sacred water

And finally, with no rolling years

He ran without any helping hand.

The highest among the ancients was Calixtus himself

He lifted up all his possessions and restored them to glory.

To whom at the same time he bestows abundant gifts of eternal salvation

He should not be without help in any part of his."
